Description

The project meeting took place between the 19th and 23rd of February 2017. The meeting had a tremendous influence on the success of our team. In addition to the information which was shared, the project meeting also strengthened the interpersonal bonds, and helped to improve communication and teamwork among partners. It also helped us to increase team morale and satisfaction. We strongly believe that this meeting will help us to enhance team effectiveness and success in our Erasmus project.

The meeting effectively allowed the coordinator to address the pressing issues succinctly, informatively, and objectively. During the meeting, participants had the opportunity to form their own opinions regarding the information and commented when it was necessary. Furthermore, the attendees were very receptive to information presented and they appreciated the time and effort which was put into the planning process of this meeting.

In our project, we have students where due to educational disadvantages caused by personal, social, cultural or economic circumstances, need support to fulfil their educational potential. This includes students with low literacy, early school leavers, migrants, and people with disabilities. To help our students to acquire the key competences they need in order to adapt flexibly to a rapidly changing and highly interconnected world we have incorporated into the project's activities the 8 basic key competencies our students need to develop.

Key competences developed during the meeting:

1. Communicating in a mother tongue: ability to express and interpret concepts, thoughts, feelings, facts and opinions both orally and in writing.
2. Communicating in a foreign language: as above, but includes mediation skills (i.e. summarizing, paraphrasing, interpreting or translating) and intercultural understanding.
3. Mathematical, scientific and technological competence: sound mastery of numeracy, an understanding of the natural world and an ability to apply knowledge and technology to perceived human needs (such as medicine, transport or communication).
4. Digital competence: confident and critical usage of information and communications technology for work, leisure and communication.
5. Learning to learn: ability to effectively manage one's own learning, either individually or in groups.
6. Social and civic competences: ability to participate effectively and constructively in one's social and working life and engage in active and democratic participation, especially in increasingly diverse societies.
7. Sense of initiative and entrepreneurship: ability to turn ideas into action through creativity, innovation and risk taking as well as ability to plan and manage projects.
8. Cultural awareness and expression: ability to appreciate the creative importance of ideas, experiences and emotions in a range of media such as music, literature and visual and performing arts.

(All the activities are related to the 8 Key Competences to be developed)

Cultural Awareness

Cultural awareness as expression has been set as one of the basic key competences in early education and training. Europe has much to gain from an increased focus on cultural awareness and expression in education; this key competence deals with many essential aspects of the societies and cultures of Europe today.

Culture awareness can be developed in a wide range of everyday contexts. i.e Visiting archaeological sites. This will help students to appreciate the cultural heritage of European nation-states and also it will help the students to understand the importance of protecting and preserving the cultural heritage of Europe. However, cultural awareness as a basic key competency will promote mutual respect among Europeans and it will give the students the opportunity to understand the relation between history, culture and identity over time.
